In 1978, Bulgarian writer and journalist Georgi Markov was assassinated on Waterloo Bridge in London. The murder weapon was believed to have been a poisoned umbrella and consequently the murder became famous in crime history as the Umbrella Murder. After many years of research, the film sheds for the first time light on the back-ground and political connections of the murder and tracks down the Bulgarian Secret Service agent, who had disappeared since 1993 and who is considered to be involved in the case. A thrilling investigative documentary, directed by history doc expert Klaus Dexel and shot on RED Epic.
